ADMINISTRATIVE

This report sets forth results of investigation conducted at Washington, D.C. re captioned matter. On 9/15/72 the Bureau advised that WFO should attempt to interview all personnel attached to the Democratic National Committee Head-quarters Staff and to the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company of Washington, D.C., who might possess information of value in regard to investigation of this matter.

	Interviews of Telephone Company Personnel have been and previously reported in re WFO report of SA l •	dated 9/26/72.

It should be noted that during the period from June, 1972, through September, 1972, the Democratic National Committee (DNC) Headquarters was staffed by a large number of permanent, temporary and volunteer employees. It was established that the DNC maintained no personnel records which would establish the length or period of employment of a given employee. Records of the DNC pertinent to the local address and/or home of record of current and former DNC employees were found to be both inaccurate and/or incomplete.

A great deal of difficulty was thus encountered by WFO in establishing the identities and whereabouts of all DNC employees, who were on duty in some capacity at the DNC during the pertinent period. This problem was enhanced by the fact that some members of the Mc Govern-Shriver Campaign Committee, a separate entity from the DNC, were recent former members of the DNC Staff. The close working relationship between both offices, caused a number of employees to frequently travel between both offices and to have ready access to either office.

Thus, the possibility exists that all DNC personnel who were employed or who worked in the DNC Office Space in some capacity during the pertinent period have not been interviewed in connection with this investigation.

However, it is the opinion of WFO that all appropriate investigation has been conducted to locate and interview DNC personnel on duty during the noted period, who might possess information in regard to the captioned incident.

Although the investigative period of this report is lengthy, investigation of the captioned case has been maintained in a current status through utilization of appropriate interoffice communication. The Bureau has also been kept advised of all important developments in the investigation of this matter since the submission of the last report by WFO in connection with this matter.

Investigation of this case has been handled concurrent with investigation of the WFO case entitled "JAMES WALTER MC CORD, JR., aka; ET AL; Burglary, Democratic National Committee Headquarters, Washington, D.C., 6/17/72; IOC; OO:WFO" (Bufile 139-4089) (WFO file 139-166). In that regard, Assistant United States Attorney Washington, D.C., the prosecutor who handled the latter case in U.S. District Court, Washington, D.C., has been kept advised of all developments and information received through investigation of the captioned incident on a regular basis.

On 10/4/72, the WFO requested the FBI Laboratory to identify manufacturers known to produce FM receivers capable of receiving transmissions from recovered device and the feasibility of modification of normal FM Broadcast receiver to monitor transmissions from the device.

On 10/18/72, the FBI Laboratory advised as follows:

In response to this request the Laboratory considered receivers that cover the frequency range of 108 MHz to 125 MHz and modification of standard FM receivers to cover the same frequency range.

The normal FM broadcast receiver covers the frequency range of 88 to 108 MHz. The Laboratory took an available General Electric Model P975D-2 receiver and found that this receiver could be made to operate up to approximately 115 MHz by realignment of the receiver with no change in internal components. The receiver could be made to cover up to 125 MHz by changing two capacitors. After these modifications were completed the above receiver was used to monitor Ql in a satisfactory manner on a frequency of approximately 120 MHz. A competent technician or engineer with adequate equipment and familiar with this type of radio could modify the above receiver or a receiver of a similar type to cover up to 125 MHz. length of time required to make the above modification would depend on the particular receiver involved, the familiarity of the person doing the modification with the receiver being modified, the competence of person making the modification, and the test equipment available to the person making the modification. modification and testing of the above General Electric receiver in the Laboratory required approximately two hours.

Most of the commercially available receivers with the exception of certain specialized receivers, which cover the 108 to 125 MHz range are manufactured to cover the aeronautical mobile band 117.975 - 132 MHz and the aeronautical radio navigation band 108-117.975 MHz, both of which are primarily AM bands. A NACO Model 8999 receiver purchased approximately six years ago for approximately $35 in a department store, in Nashville, Tennessee was made available to the Laboratory. This receiver gives excellent reception of Ql and also the aircraft band and the FM police band. A similar receiver sold under the name of DYN-Sonic, Model 1006, was marketed by Save-Mor drugstore. Both of the above receivers were manufactured in Japan.

A review of literature available in the Laboratory listed the following receivers which reportedly cover the aircraft band.

Radio Shack Electronics catalog No. 227 lists the following receivers.

In the past when attempting to trace many of the less expensive radio receivers the Laboratory has found that no record is maintained by manufacturers or distributors of the serial numbers of these units except when warranty card is returned.

Although the above does not represent an exhaustive survey it can be seen from the above that receivers capable of receiving frequencies between 108 and 125 MHz are widely available from a number of different sources. Inasmuch as the aircraft band is primarily an AM band and the device recovered is fundamentally an FM device and that most of the receivers listed above were not available in the Laboratory for testing it is not known if all the receivers listed above will receive the device recovered. However, all receivers tested in the Laboratory which cover the above 108 to 125 MHz band would receive the device.

The tests were conducted to determine how well radio signals radiated from the Democratic National Committee Headquarters area, using the miniature transmitters associated with the captioned cases, could be received individually with a CEI radio receiver system in Rooms 419 and 723 of the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge. For the information of Washington Field, the tests further indicated that the received signal level of Ql was less than the signal levels received from Q3, Q4 and Q5.

Remarks:

Referenced airtel requested the Laboratory to identify any other examinations which may be conducted by the Laboratory which will establish any further similarity or difference between any of the recovered devices.

Laboratory could run an elemental analysis on the antenna wire used in Ql and Q8 to determine whether of similar composition. If found to be similar, this would not ordinarily be conclusive evidence that both came from the same source but would merely indicate that both could have come from the same source. This type of test, if desired to be conducted, will require removal and destruction of approximately 1 1/2 inches of the antenna wire from each of Ql and Q8.

Similarly, Laboratory could conduct an elemental analysis on solder which is present on the specimens, to determine whether the solder may be similar in composition. Here again, a finding of similar composition would not be conclusive evidence of a common origin, but would merely indicate that the solder could have come from the same source. Such an examination would necessitate removal and destruction of the solder from selected points on the devices.

A small amount of potting compound can be removed from Q3, Q4 and Q5 and analyzed to determine if the potting compound can be stripped from the specimen to expose components without destroying the circuit. A small amount of potting compound can be removed for the above analysis without damage to the electronic circuitry. If feasible, such removal would possibly destroy the potting compound but would permit visual examination of the presently concealed components as to possible similarities or differences.

Mrs. DOROTHY BUSH, Secretary of the Democratic National Committee, residing at Apartment 115E. 4201 Cathedral Avenue, N.W., nome phone 244-6677, business Washington, D.C. telephone 333-8750, Extension 685-6, was interviewed at the Democratic National Committee Headquarters.

Present during the interview was Caplin and Drysdale Law Firm, representing the Democratic National Committee (DNC).

Mrs. BUSH advised she entered on duty with the DNC March 1, 1944.

She stated the only knowledge she had regarding the break-in of the Watergate Office space in June, 1972, pertained to being told file cabinets in her office had been broken into. However, to her knowledge nothing had been stolen. Mrs. BUSH said the file cabinets contained various lists of names, phone numbers, and residences of DNC membership, list of delegates, and biographies of various delegates to the national convention.

Mrs. BUSH also advised she does not come into the DNC Headquarters on a daily basis, but at only such times that her presence is required for various duties associated with her office of secretary of the DNC.

Mrs. BUSH could furnish no specific information pertaining to the finding of a listening device which had been discovered on September 13, 1972, in the telephone of SPENCER OLIVER. She could furnish no reason as to why Mr. OLIVER's telephone had been singled out for a listening device.

Other than occasional appearance of telephone company service personnel, she had never seen anyone tampering with or examining telephones in the DNC Office space.

Committee for MC GOVERN - SCHRIVER, Sixth Floor, Watergate Office Building, 2600 Virginia Avenue, Washington, D.C., provided the following information:

b6 b7C

He stated that his duties as Comptroller generally require that he be on the sixth floor at least twice daily to see various persons. He stated that he knows SPENCER OLIVER very well and knew that there was some disagreement between LARRY O'BRIEN and SPENCER OLIVER. He stated that O'BRIEN and OLIVER had a disagreement over OLIVER's establishment of the Young Democrats and the location of the Young Democrats in office space of the Democratic National Committee Headquarters. He stated that the dispute was settled prior to becoming the chairman of the Committee with OLIVER winning out and locating the Young Democrats in the DNCH space on the sixth floor. He stated that O'BRIEN initially felt that the Committee ought not to house other groups. He advised that IRA KAPPENSTEIN (now deceased), assistant to LARRY O'BRIEN, had no use for SPENCER OLIVER.

He stated that since SPENCER OLIVER was well acquainted with old-line Democrats, information obtainable by means of an electronic listening device would be of interest to those who wanted information concerning the present and future plans of the party.

He advised that he observed no security procedures on the sixth floor and that anyone could enter the building on the weekend simply by signing any name into the sign-in book.

He stated that no one had approached him concerning security information or location of specific offices or telephones. He stated that he observed no one tampering with telephones.

He advised that he had no information concerning the electronic devices located on telephones at the Democratic National Committee Headquarters.

advised he was acquainted with Mr. OLIVER and OLIVER'S duties. He stated that he had no ideas as to the reason for the listening device being on Mr. OLIVER'S telephone. He stated that there were other telephones in the DNC office which would have been more likely to have had listening devices. He stated that in his opinion a device placed on the telephones of the treasurers offices would have provided the listener with financial information of the DNC.

Stanley Greigg Stand Greigg

STANLEY L. GREIGG, Deputy Chairman, Citizens for McGovern, 1910 K Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. (WDC), provided the following information:

He has been in the employ of the Democratic National Committee (DNC) since Spring, 1969.

He stated he had received no prior information preceding either attempt to monitor phones or activities at the Democratic National Committee Headquarters (DNCH). He stated that he knew of no other breach of security at the DNCH other than the two incidents.

He advised that he knows SPENCER OLIVER and doubts that anyone within the Democratic Party would want to monitor OLIVER's telephone. He stated that OLIVER had a good working relationship with other staff members.

GREIGG stated that after the first incident the people from the FBI Laboratory swept the DNCH in search of electronic listening devices, but that this was done behind closed doors and no members of the Committee were present. He stated that in his opinion the FBI missed the electronic listening device that was later discovered on OLIVER's telephone.

She began working at DNCH in December, 1068. She is currently employed as the Secretary to the Chairperson at DNCH.

On June 17, 1972, she accompanied an FBI Agent through the office areas of DNCH while he checked office desks with a key. She understood this key had been found in the possession of one of the men caught inside the DNCH. This key fit the desk belonging to the Secretary to SPINCER. OLIVER. She knew nothing additional concerning events at Watspgate.

She had no knowledge of why anyone would place a listening device on OLIVEP's telephone, but assumed it would be done because of OLIVER's high position with the DNCH.

She had suggested in a memo to her boss prior to the June 13, 1972, incident that security at DNCH be improved. This suggestion stemed from her background as a former Federal Government employee and the bomb threat that she had telephonically received at DNCH the week prior to June 13, 1972. The bomb threat and memo resulted in a staff meeting being held prior to June 13, 1972. At that meeting everyone was cautioned to be careful and made aware of the bomb threat.

She had used OLIVER's telephone on occasion because it was located in the room used as a "break" area by DNCH personnel.

LARRY LAWRENCEAO'BRIEN, Campaign Director, McGovern-Shriver Campaign Headquarters, 1910 K Street, N.W., Washington, D. C. (WDC), was interviewed in the presence of Attorney an attorney with the law firm of Williams, Connolly and Califano, which firm represents the Democratic National Committee (DNC), WDC. Mr. O'BRIEN furnished the following information:

He recalled that two incidents had occurred about one year ago during his tenure as Chairman of the DNC. In each of those incidents, individual(s) had been discovered by DNC employees in the act of reading or sorting trash from the DNC office space. Mr. O'BRIEN stated that he believed both incidents had involved individuals employed in a maintenance capacity, either by the Watergate Office Building or by a private trash collection firm which serviced the DNC offices. He indicated one incident had occurred in the basement of the Watergate Office Building, while the other incident had occurred within the DNC office space itself. Mr. O'BRIEN stated that former Executive Director of the DNC, who is currently connected with the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employees, WDC, might be familiar with the identity of the individuals involved in both incidents.

letter from on or about March of 1972, in regard to a possible attempt to compromise security at the DNC. Mr. O'BRIEN added that he had not talked to in connection with such information and had not personally locked into the validity of allegation. Mr. O'BRIEN indicated that STANLEY GREIGG, who had been at that time a Special Assistant to the Chairman, DNC, had had responsibility for the security of the DNC office space. Mr. O'BRIEN advised that Mr. GRIEGG would thus have probably received and handled letter.

Mr. O'BRIEN indicated that a private security agency had been employed by the DNC during the 1968 Presidential campaign to search the Committee's office space for presence of wire tap or "bugging" devices. However, he noted that in the present campaign, the DNC had not hired any outside security agency to perform such a service. Mr. O'BRIEN stated

The state of the s A STATE OF THE STA that the DNC was not able to engage in the luxury of having this type of service due to a lack of funds. He stated that he recalled that discussion had taken place at the DNC in regard to obtaining the services of a private security firm to perform such a "sweep" for "bugging devices". However, he could not recall if such a "sweep" had been accomplished. He noted that Mr. STANLEY GREIGG would be able to definitely indicate whether such a "sweep" had in fact occurred.

Mr. O'BRIEN stated that prior to the Democratic National Convention in July, 1972, the DNC had attempted to maintain the same degree of security that any normal business operation might have. During normal business hours, visitors to the DNC offices are required to contact either a receptionist in the office lobby or a telephone operator who acts as a receptionist in the receptionist's absence. Mr. O'ERIEN also noted that after the close of the normal business day, the Watergate Office Building maintains a security force on duty and also utilizes a sign in and sign out register for any individual who enters or leaves the building at that time. Mr. O'ERIEN advised that he felt such security procedures were adequate for operation of the DNC prior to the Democratic National Convention. He indicated that he had no personal knowledge of any personnel at the DNC who had abridged the Watergate Office Building security.

The interviewing Agents indicated to Mr. O'BRIEN that articles had appeared in various newspapers in September of this year in which Mr. O'BRIEN was alleged to have indicated that a wire tap device had been present on his own telephone at the DNC and on the telephone of R. SPENCER OLIVER, another DMC employee. The interviewing Agents requested Mr. O'BRIEN to identify the individual(s) from whom he had received such information. Mr. O'BRIEN indicated that he had received information to the effect that a "bug" had been present on both his own telephone and the telephone of R. SPENCER OLIVER from "counsel". The interviewing Agents asked Mr. O'BRIEN if this "counsel" was in fact a member of the .. Williams, Connolly and Califano law firm which represents the DNC, and if so to identify the specific member of that firm who had furnished him with that information. Mr. O'BRIEN replied that he had simply received the information from

Mr. GREIGG indicated that several days after June 17, 1972, the DNC had obtained the services of an individual to "sweep" certain areas of the DNC office space for the presence of a "buy". Mr. GREIGG indicated that a WDC attorney, had made the arrangements for the individual to come to the DNC and conduct that search. Mr. GREIGG advised that this "sweep" had been limited to the area in the vicinity of the "Chairman's Office" at the DNC. He did not recall that any other office within the DNC office space had been checked for presence of a wire tap device by this individual.	b(
On October 18, 1972. Mr. GREIGG advised that he had determined that one (phonetic) had been the individual who had conducted the described "sweep". Mr. GREIGG indicated that he believed was a resident of WDC.

They then went around to GREIGG's office where he viewed the telephone and made a fast sweep with the "hound dog". After that GREIGG introduced him to LARRY O'BRIEN and he made a fast sweep of O'BRIEN's office just using the "hound dog". He did not take the telephone apart since O'BRIEN told him the telephone company had checked all the phones in the DNC offices. He then conducted a very fast sweep of an office adjacent to O'BRIEN's, packed up his equipment and left.

The state of the s

the confidence of the constitution

He explained that he was primarly looking for a transmitter and did not check the telephone room. GREIGG just wanted to be cautious and it is his opinion that this sweep was initiated by GREIGG rather than At the time was trying to arrange for him to go to Miami to check rooms occupied by the Democrats during the convention. In fact, called him from Miami requesting him to come down, but could not promise him a plane ticket. Because of this, he did not go.

Since this one time in June he has received no additional requests to conduct another sweep. We indicated that the "hound dog" would not have picked up any devices in other rooms, but only one in the same room. It was not sophisticated enough to pick up signals from other locations as it was not quite that strong.

American Federation of State, County and Municipal b7C Employees, American Federation of Labor-Congress of Industrial Organizations, 1155 15th Street, N.W., Washington, D.C. (WDC) was interviewed at his office and provided the following information:

In early 1971, he learned that a Negro male on the night janitorial staff was observed by Democratic National Committee (DNC) employees reading and sorting trash right in their offices. This cleaning company was hired by the Matergate Building Manager's Office, and this particular individual was employed during the day with the District of Columbia School System, possibly as a teacher.

Later on, more DNC people observed him doing the same thing and the DNC formally requested the building manager to take this individual off the night cleaning crew.

In 1970, DNC people also observed two individuals sorting DNC trash before baling it in the basement trash area. Thereafter, he himself, began checking this area at odd hours, but never observed anyone doing this or anything unusual. He doubted seriously whether these two individuals that were seen were ever identified.

The one persistent problem security wise from 1969 through 1972, was that of people sticking cards or pieces of cardboard in the stairvar door leading to the DNC to keep it open. He felt that both cleaning people and DNC employees were equally responsible.

As far as identifying the Negro male sorting the trash in 1971, he suggested that the building manager be contacted or, if unsuccessful, the lady in charge of the night classing crew may possibly be of some help.

He could not recall an incident where an employee of his cleaning staff in 1971 was fired for sorting and reading trash in the Democratic National Committee Offices. A check with appropriate personnel and records maintained by his office was also negative.

He explained that this incident may very well have occurred but another reason for the firing may have been officially recorded at the time in the personnel records.

Moreover, the most likely persons to have known about this incident would have been supervisory personnel who are no longer employed at the Watergate. Since May, 1972, the cleaning of the building has been handled by a firm hired by his office, namely, Redcoats Inc.

She described herself as a floating volunteer but works mostly in the Chairman's office and began duty in June, 1972.

Due to the nature of the business, it is easy for any unidentified person to gain access to the DNCH space. The receptionist at the entrance way to the headquarters is primarily concerned in being helpful in bringing any visitor to the attention of the person they desire to see.

Whenever she enters the building she immediately goes to work and has very little knowledge of other persons in the headquarters and has absolutely no personal knowledge concerning the discovery of a listening device on SPENCER OLIVER's telephone. Her only knowledge concerning this incident as well as the arrest of individuals accused of bugging the DNCH was gained from reading the papers and watching television.

She has no knowledge concerning the discovery of a red box in the ladies! restroom.

The only persons observed disassembling any telephones were individuals employed by the telephone company and she has observed no one that aroused her suspicion.

was interviewed in the presence or attorney for the Democratic National Committee (DNC) at the Watergate Office Building, 2600 Virginia Avenue, N.W.

She has been employed since June, 1972, at the DNC Headquarters as an assistant to the Director of Spanish "Speaking People under Her hours of employment are from 9:00 a.m., to 7:00 p.m.

She was not employed at the DNC Headquarters when individuals were arrested while attempting to place electronic devices in the DNC Headquarters. The only information in her possession concerning the discovery of a listening device in SPENCER OLIVER's telephone was obtained from reading the papers and watching television.

Many people come and go in the office but she is personally acquainted with only a few. On no occasion has she observed anyone in which she felt was acting in a suspicious manner.

The only people she has observed disassembling or moving telephones were people she assumed to be employees of the telephone company. This assumption was based upon the dress and the frequency with which she has observed them in the office.

She knew nothing concerning the discovery of a red box in the ladies' restroom.

It has been his observation there is no great attempt to identify individuals coming into the office and it was possible to enter the office by the front door or from the basement. From the basement one may walk up by utilizing the stairs or taking the elevators. It is the normal procedure at night for a person to sign in at the front door or one could drive a car into the garage and wait until the trash door is open and then enter the building. On occasion he has observed that the door to the office building has been held open either by utilizing a piece of paper or a small box. He was of the opinion a person desiring to enter Democratic National Committee Headquarters (DNCH) would be able to do so without being challenged by anyone after working hours.

He has no personal knowledge of the incident in which a listening device was observed in SPENCER OLIVER's telephone and could offer no explanation as why anyone would select Mr. OLIVER's telephone in which to place a listening device. His knowledge of the previous incidents in which several individuals were arrested at the time they broke into DNCH, was gained entirely from reading the paper, watching television and listening to the radio.

He has been employed at the DNC Headquarters for only the past month and he worked in the radio office. His hours of employment vary. Monday and Friday he works all day. On Wednesday he leaves at 3:30 p.m., and works only on Tuesdays and Thursdays when needed. He attends George Washington University. If he should come to work early in the morning he frequently is required to sign in but sometimes the guard is not on duty. He can also enter the building through the hotel entrance. He has absolutely no knowledge other than what he has read in the news media or heard on the radio concerning the arrest of individuals that had broken into the DNC Headquarters.

Concerning the discovery of a listening device on SPENCER OLIVER's telephone, he was in class that day and when he came back to the office at approximately 8:30 p.m., there were many news reporters around the place.

While he is in the office he is in the back most of the day and seldom in a position to observe visitors. He has not observed anyone acting in a suspicious manner and could offer no reason qhy anyone would select SPENCER OLIVER's telephone in which to place a listening device.

(DNC) at the Watergate Office Building, 2600 Virginia Avenue N.W. She has been employed at the DNC Headquarters as a volunteer in the Treasurer's Office since September, 1971. Her work consists mostly of typing and she works only four hours a day usually from 2:00 - 6:00 p.m. Whenever she arrives to work others are already at their tasks and when she leaves most of them are still working.

Whenever she comes to work it is easy for her to gain access to the office since it is open for business. She does not think it is necessary for anyone to identify themselves before entering the office unless they so desire. She herself is not required to show any identification.

Shortly after the time when several individuals were arrested and accused of planting listening devices in the DNC Headquarters, she observed their pictures in the paper but none were familiar to her.—Neither could she ever recall seeing any of them in the office.

She is not acquainted with SPENCER OLIVER and the only information concerning the listening device that was placed in his telephone was obtained by listening to the radio and reading the papers. She spends most of her time at her desk and can recall only one incident in which she was slightly suspicious of an individual. She recalled that during the convention around noon she observed a Spanish appearing man approximately 40 years of age, small and with a dark complexion at the elevator in front of the office space. He mentioned somthing about "Is this Democratic Party" and it was apparent he did not speak very good English. She entered the elevator and he did likewise and got off at B2. About 15 or 20 minutes later she returned and entered the elevator on B2 and he also got back on the elevator but she did not see him again. The only reason she was suspicious of this individual was due to his apparent inability to speak clear English and the confused manner in which he acted.

It is her recollection that she mentioned this individual to one of the girls that works in the office whose identity she cannot definitely recall but knew that was there at the time and might have observed this individual.

She further stated that she was not working out of the Watergate Office Building at the time of the first bugging incident on June 17, 1972. She advised that she spent a great majority of her time in March, April and May down in Miami Beach preparing for the convention. She said the time that she did spend in WDC during that time period She spent working out of an office on the fifth floor of the Water ate Office Building. When questioned as to any pertinent information she might have regarding the first Watergate bugging she advised that she could recall nothing which she thought would be of interest to interviewing Agents. She did state however that sometime in 1970, while working on the fifth floor of the Watergate Office Building she observed a room in the Watergate Hotel in which the curtains were suspiciously always closed. She stated that it became common around her office to refer to this room continually, always noting that the curtains were closed. This room was directly opposite of the sixth floor of the Watergate Office Building and had a balcony which overlooked the river. A person viewing the Watergate Office Building from this room would be looking at the side of the building which contained Mr. STRAUSS' office, Treasurer of the building which contained Mr. STRAUSS' office, Treasurer of
She further added that they noticed this curtain closed for approximately three to six months at which time it seemed as the interest dropped and she could not recall when normal activity resumed in that room. She added that it could be a possibility that this room was rented on a limited basis and therefore when not being occupied the curtains would be closed.  Stated that when she returned from the convention, she immediately moved to the K Street address to

She is presently unemployed, however was formerly employed at the Democratic National Committee Headquarters (DNCH) in the capacity of a Research Analyst from December, 1969, until July 15, 1972.

She stated that she had no knowledge of the "bugging" incidents at the DNCH last June and September other than what she has read in the newspapers. She stated that it was her theory that the only reason SPENCER OLIVER's office was chosen to plant the "bugs" was because his was one of the more lavish offices, considering all the furniture he utilized, and the individuals responsible for the "bugs" were probably hoping that the office they chose was LARRY O'BRIAN's or somebody else's with a lot of influence.

She stated that the only motivation that seemed plausible to her for planting a "bug" was to obtain information regarding the Democrat's current political campaign. She has no reason to feel it was a result of a personal vendetta or a within party struggle. Along the same lines, she stated that she seriously doubted anyone in the party was responsible for the "bug" since she has never seen a party member either dismantle or tamper with the telephones at the DNCH.

She considered the security at the DNCH quite poor inasmuch as it was no trouble to enter the building without being seen by the guards. She has personal knowledge of the back doors being left open after hours when they were supposed to be locked. It was her opinion that anyone could have entered the DNCH with no problem at all.

She stated that she had no knowledge concerning the activities which could be characterized as "Watergate I" (June 17, 1972) or "Watergate II" (September 13, 1972). She added that she had no knowledge as to why R. SPENCER OLIVER's telephone at the DNC Headquarters would have been targeted for a listening device. She could offer no information as to why anyone in the Democratic Party would do such a thing.

She knows of no incident in which personnel from other than the telephone company have dismantled or otherwise tampered with telephones at the DNCH. She is acquainted with or has seen two full time telephone men working in the quarters of the DNC.

With regard to her opinion of security at the DNCH located in the Watergate she stated "there is no security". She added that there is no real control of anyone entering or leaving the facility.

He stated that he is a student at American University majoring in broadcasting and as part of his studious activities (undergraduate) he is a minor in the school of Government and was serving an "internship" at the Democratic National Committee Headquarters (DNCH), located at the Watergate facility.

He stated that he occasionally was active depending upon his school work at the DNCH after February, 1972. He advised that he was traveling in Europe from May 15, 1972, through June 5, 1972.

He stated that he had no knowledge concerning "Watergate I" (June 17, 1972) or "Watergate II" (September 13, 1972). He stated that he did not have many contacts with Mr. SPENCER OLIVER and merely had occasion to serve him within the Headquarters. He believes that Mr. OLIVER carried on some duties for Chairman O'BRIEN in O'BRIEN's absence. He stated that he knows of no incident where employees other than telephone employee personnel tampered with telephones.

With regard to security at the DNCH located in the Watergate facility he characterized the security as "minimal". He added that he had discovered a side door to that facility open on occasion and on other occasions had observed an assigned guard not being alert.

From February 25, 1969 until August 1, 1972, he was employed at the Democratic National Committee Head-quarters (DNCH), 2700 Virginia Avenue, N. W., Washington, D. C., in the capacity of a Director, for the Commission on Party Structure and Delegate Selection.	ţ
He stated that the knowledge he had of the two "bugging" incidents at the DNCH was what he has either ascertained from the mass media or from his friends. He was amazed to hear about the incidents, but believed it was strictly political in nature. He explained that SPENCER OLIVER, whose phones were "bugged", is the Executive Director of the Association of Democratic State Chairman, and in this capacity, is continually in contact with ranking democrats throughout the country. By "bugging" his phone, a lot could be learned regarding political strateg for the upcoming election.	;y
stated he has never observed anyone but telephone company personnel dismantle telephones at the DNCH. He further stated that inasmuch as OLIVER was frequently on trips, the voluntary helpers at the DNCH used his phones whenever possible. He explained that there was an informal atmosphere at the DNCH, and there were no set rules regarding using other individual's phones.
Regarding security at the DUCH, felt it was quite adequate since guards were always on duty after hours, and logged in all individuals coming into the building He has never observed nor heard of any security problems at 2700 Virginia Avenue, N. W., with the exception of approximately two occasions when the back door was left unlocked.	•

Specimens received

Kl Three plastic sample cases used by Knowles Electronics received 9/25/72. KI was compared with QI which was received by the Laboratory on 9/13/72.

Results of Examination:

. Except for the two side portions, the container of specimen Ql was determined to have been fashioned from a Knowles Electronics plastic box similar to specimen Kl.

The plastic used in the top of the container for QI was determined to be the same type of plastic as used in the top portion of Kl and the plastic used in the bottom portion of the container for QI was determined to be the same type of plastic as the bottom portion of Kl.

The top and bottom portions of the Knowles Electronics plastic box used to fashion the container for QI make up two side portions of the container. The other two side portions of the container for Ql were fashioned from a plastic material dissimilar to that used in the Knowles Electronics plastic box.

Kl is being forwarded to Washington Field Office under separate cover.

On 10/16/72, tests were conducted from the offices of R. Spencer located in space leased by the Democratic National Committee Headquarters (DNCH), on the 6th floor of the Watergate Apartments, Washington, D. C.

The equipment used to conduct the tests consists of the following: The telephone removed from the office of Mr. Oliver on 9/13/72, the telephone on the desk of the CEI, radio receiving system designated Q99 in Bureau file #139-4089, miniature transmitters designated Ql in Bureau file #139-4136 and Q3, Q4, Q5 and Q8 in Bureau file #139-4089.

From results of the tests it was determined that all transmitters tested from the above offices could be satisfactorily received in Rooms 419 and 723 of the Howard Johnson Motor Lodge located across the street from the DNCH.

It should be noted that a transistor in QI was defective when found. For test purposes the defective transistor was replaced by a new one of the same type and made by the same manufacturer as the original.

The evidence is being returned to you via personal carrier.

Results of Examination:

Report regarding "James Walter McCord, Jr., Et Al Burglary, Democratic National Committee Headquarters, Washington, D. C., June 17, 1972" dated June 26, 1972, which were returned to the Laboratory on October 1, 1972, were compared with Gl in the Laboratory Report regarding "Unsub(s) Democratic National Committee Headquarters, Washington, D. C. September 13, 1972, IOC" dated September 26, 1972.

In addition to the information contained in the above mentioned Laboratory Reports the following observations were made concerning Ql, Q3, Q4, Q5 and Q8:

Q1 is obviously different in design and construction from Q3, Q4, Q5 and Q3 with respect to most observable features. While Q1, Q3, Q4 and Q5 all have alligator clips with No. 30 stamped on them, the stamp on Q3, Q4 and Q5 is one size and the stamp on Q1 is a different size. See attached photograph which shows the difference in the stamp size. Q8 has no such clip. The alligator clips on Q1 and Q3 both have black vinyl slip-on insulators with "Mueller USA" "No. 36" on them and are of the same size and type. The clips of Q4 and Q5 do not have insulators on them. In this regard Mueller alligator clips and slip-on insulators are very common and widely available.

The antenna wire used in QI is dissimilar to the antenna wire used for specimens Q3, Q4 and Q5; while the antenna wire used in QI is similar in appearance to the antenna wire used on Q8, this type wire is widely available.

The type of construction used in Ql is different from that used in Q8 in that several of the components of Q8 are mounted in the circuit board and on both sides of the circuit board whereas in Ql all components are soldered to the top of a circuit board. Moreover the circuit board used in Ql is different in appearance from that used in Q8. It appears from X-rays of Q5 that the components of Q5 are mounted through and on both sides of the circuit board in a manner similar to that used in Q8. No X-rays were made of Q3 and Q4 because of the similarity of Q3, Q4 and Q5 and the possibility of circuit damage resulting from X-rays.

The basic electronic circuit of Ql is different from that of Q3, Q4, Q5 and Q8 in that Q3, Q4, Q5 and Q8 all have two tunable coils whereas Ql has no tunable coil, uses only one coil, and has a tunable capacitor which is not present in the other units.

Other obvious differences in construction and size are apparent from the attached photographs.

The microphone associated with Q8 is similar in appearance to a Knowles Electronics 1590 DW082 microphone. It is noted that part of the container used in fabricating Q1 was fashioned from a Knowles Electronics plastic box. However, Knowles microphones are widely available and there is no way by which the Laboratory can determine whether the plastic box of Q1 was ever associated with the microphone of Q8.

The evidence submitted has been returned to Washington Field Office.
